Worthy Sister and Brother :—

We appeal to you in reference to paying your dues. Now we wrote you time and again that dues must be paid in order that we would be able to cover our expenses. However, you paid little attention to it thus far. Now we are reminding you for the last time that if your dues are not paid by Monday, you will automatically be stricken from our books and you will lose all rights that a member in goodstanding is entitled.

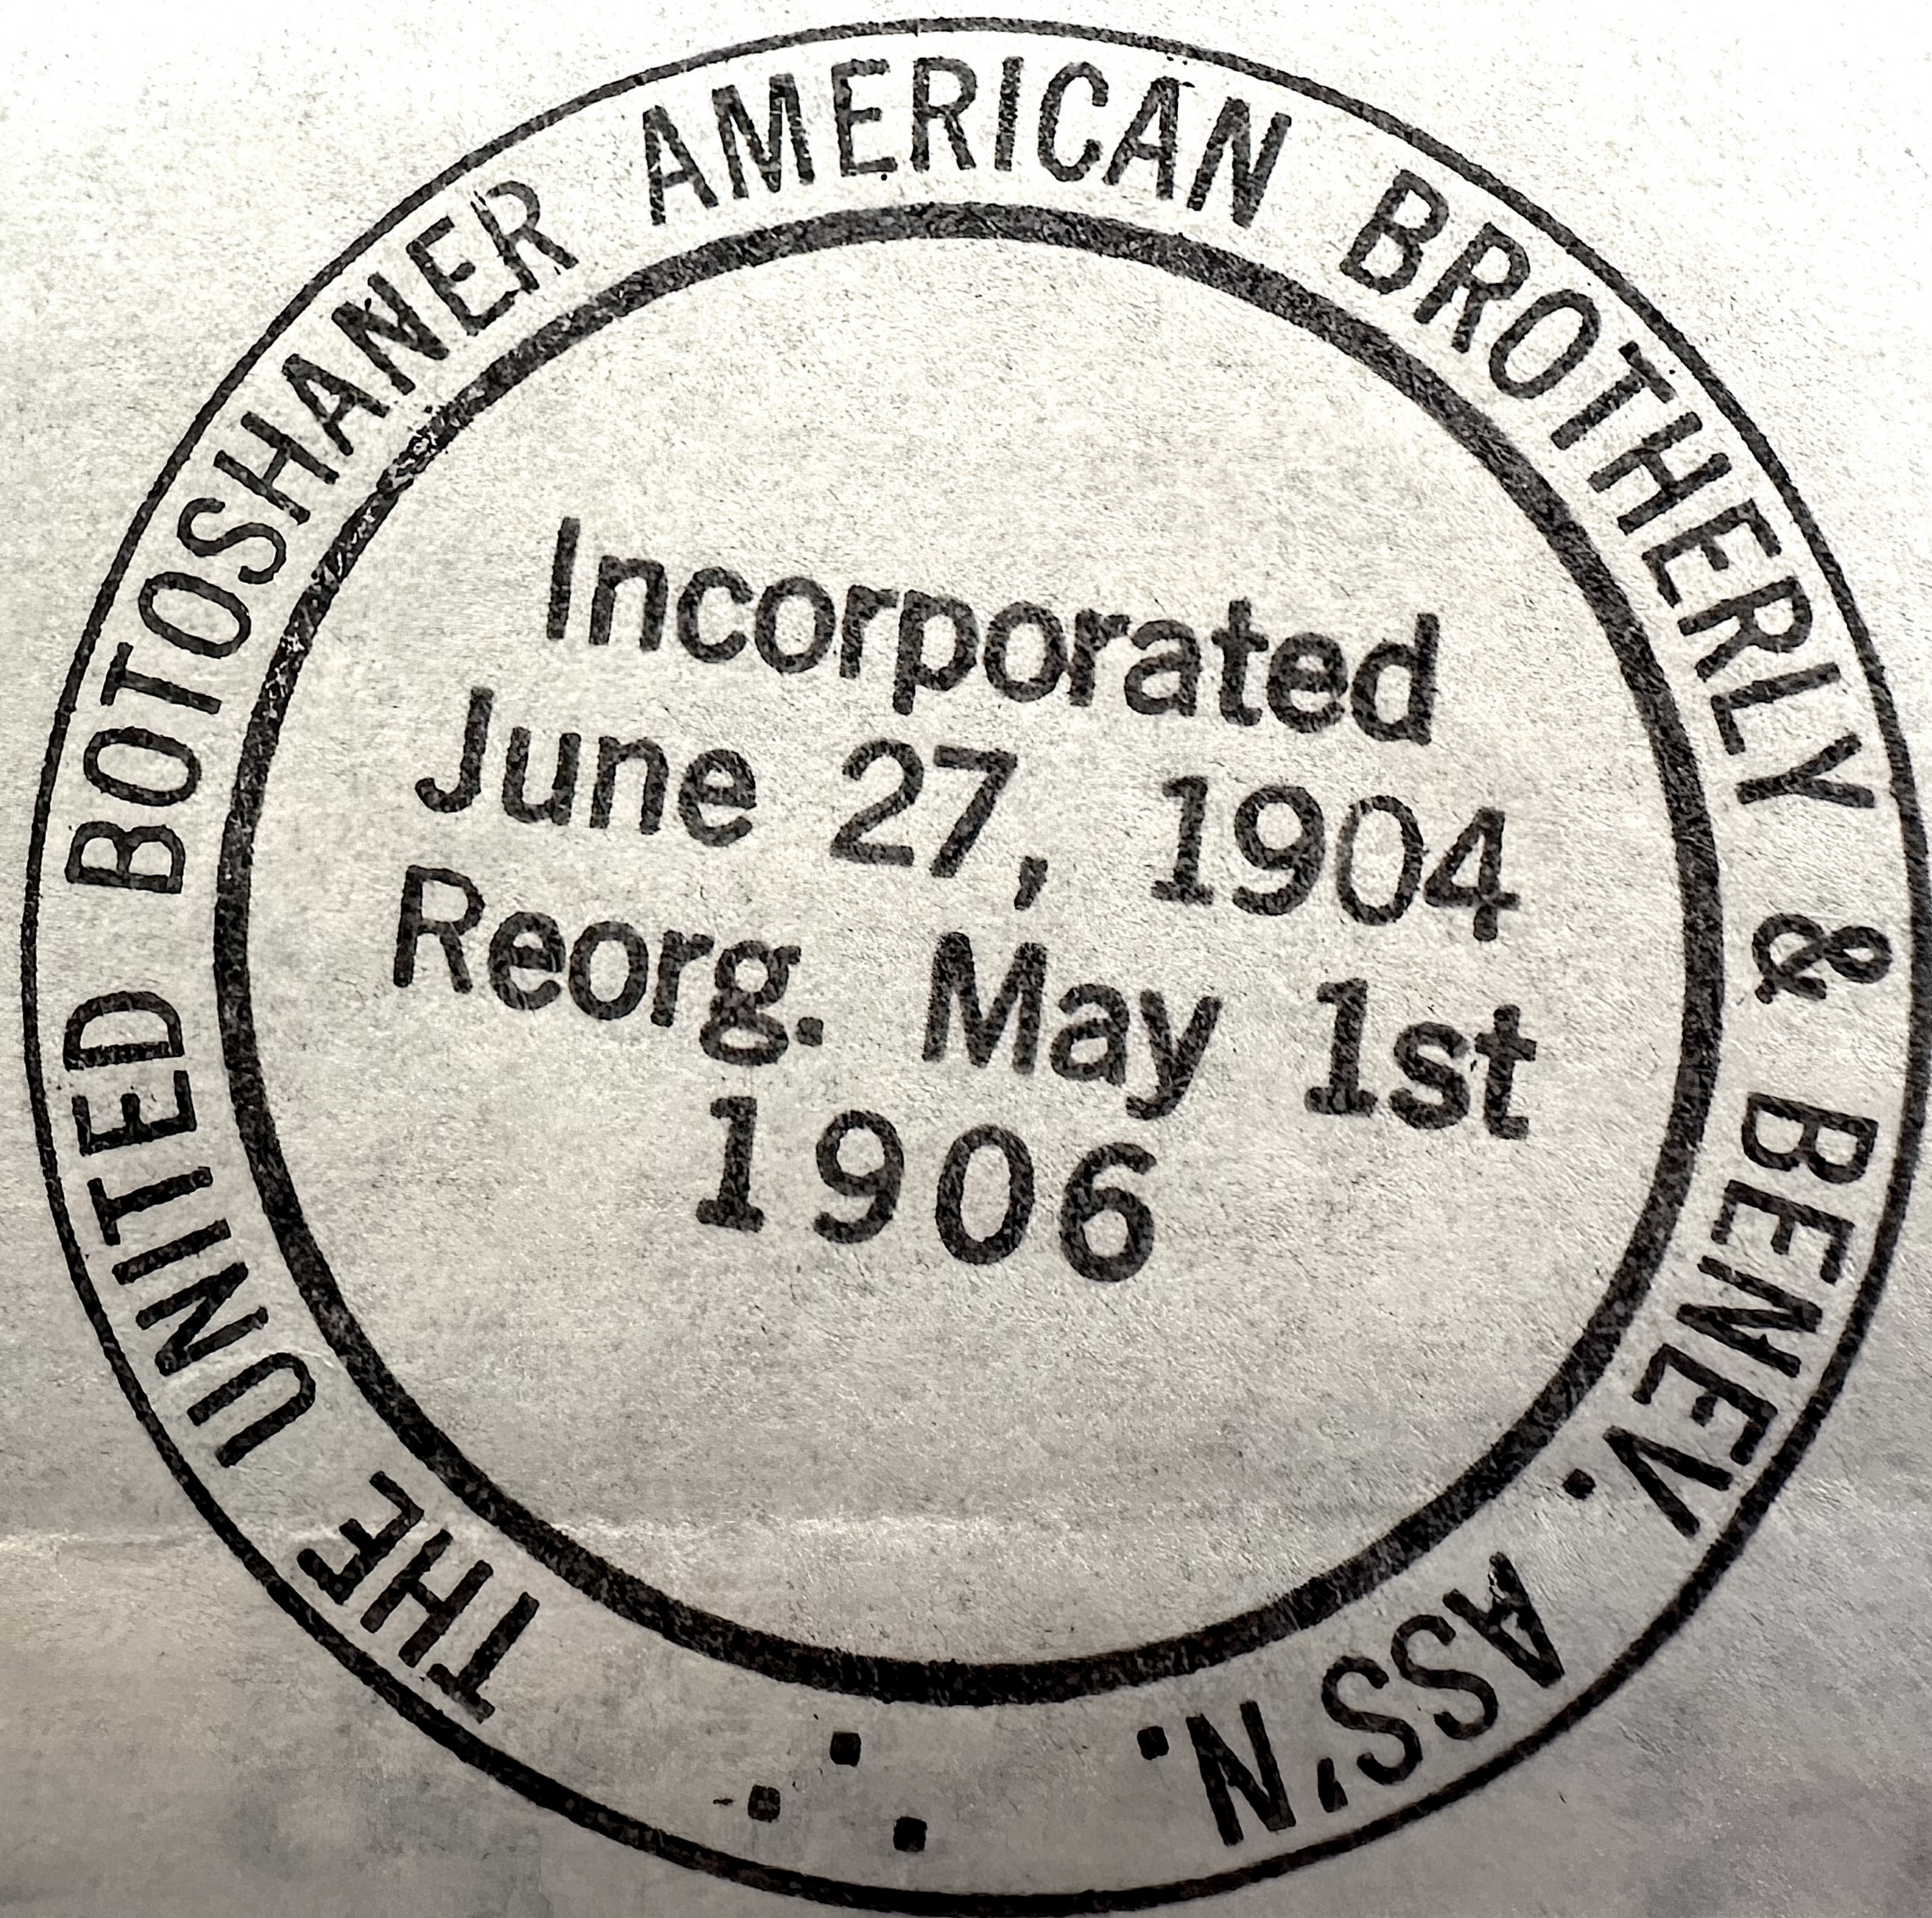

We are not doing this because we want to, but you are compelling us to take such action as you know we cannot run a society on air; we have to have money to run it. Remember, this is final. We must have your dues by and not later, otherwise it will be too late.
